RESEARCH CENTRE ON LEADERSHIP AND MENTORSHIP

Newnan, GA -- October 14, 2008 -- The Alumni Association Network (AAN), a central hub of research scholars.

In preparation to prepare the leadership team of the AAN to serve its members, officers and directors are encourage to read sources from various schools of thoughts. Serving a global market of scholars requires a broad knowledge base and dedicated scholastic leaders and mentors.

The Alumni Association Network Composition Initiative will include the announcements of the release of new books that center on leadership or mentorship. The Network asks authors, publishers, or publicists to donate a newly released book to AAN's Research Centre. Journals will also be accepted. In exchange, AAN will distribute an email to many scholars across the nation. Although AAN cannot guarantee any sells of the donated book, AAN will share the primary link to access the preview of the book so scholars might learn more about the author(s). Primary links cannot include the sites of book resellers. If sources are sent that do not pertain to the subject, the book(s) will not be returned to the sender or announced and will become the property of AAN.

The Research Centre on Leadership and Mentorship will help support researchers who prepare peer-reviewed articles at the Scholastic Research Institute (SRI). If author, publisher, or publicist accepts AAN's offer, send a book or journal to the following address:
